That moment when your friend asks if you're having a good day or just faking it well

